BACK NUMBERS

OF

WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA

¶ Notwithstanding the fact that the value of each edition of WHO'S WHO IN AMERICA for up-to-date reference in regard to the living notables of the country is entirely supplanted by the succeeding new edition, the old volumes gain, year by year, in historical and reminiscent usefulness. The latest volume will, of course, always present the living with such increased completeness as to be indispensable for daily reference, yet the old editions become more and more valuable as records of those who have died, many of which it would be difficult, if not impossible, to find elsewhere. This fact is meeting with wide recognition, so that public, institutional and private libraries are keeping the old volumes as a series of the utmost value for presenting, with a completeness nowhere else attainable, the biographical history of the United States and all its varied interests and activities.

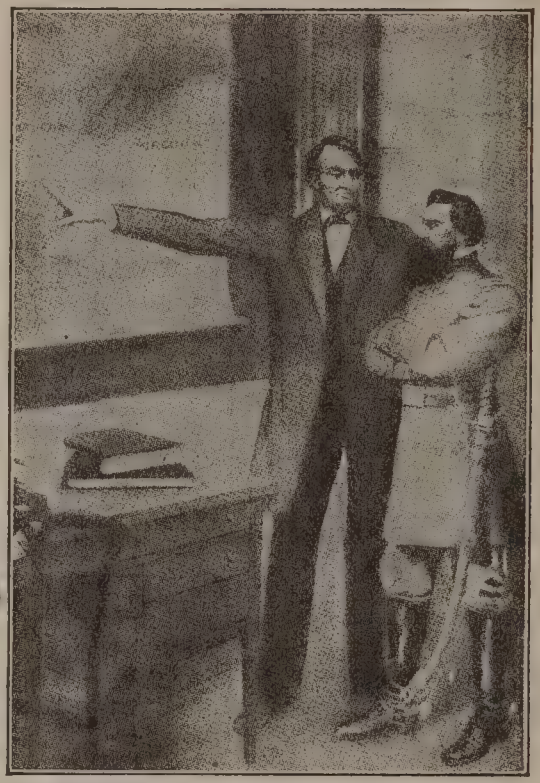
You should keep a complete file of Who's Who in America — from the first volume to the latest. If you have not procured the earlier volumes, BEGIN NOW.

EDUCATIONAL

Lincoln Memorial University

CUMBERLAND GAP, TENNESSEE

BACK in Civil War days, as General O. O. Howard was starting on his Tennesee Campaign, Lincoln said to him: "General, you will find the people down there loyal and true, ready to sacrifice their food and clothes for your soldiers. They are my people. They have never had an educational opportunity. I want you to promise that if you come out of this horror alive, you will do something for them." Years later, General Howard founded the Lincoln Memorial University at Cumberland Gap, where the States of Virginia, Kentucky and Tennessee intersect.



Lincoln's Appeal to Gen. Howard.

It is Lincoln's Living Memorial. Its work is among the up-standing, hardy, people of the Appalachian Mountains. There are six millions of them cursed with an appalling illiteracy. They have produced such leaders as Daniel Boone, Sam Huston, Andrew Jackson, Admiral Farragut, Henry Clay, Woodrow Wilson, and Abraham Lincoln. They are far removed from contact with the outside world, separated from the opportunities of modern life,—a primitive condition where homespun, candle-lighting, mule-back-riding and log cabins survive modern civilization.

Lincoln Memorial University is Americanizing these Americans. It has a thousand students. They come from deepest poverty—the limitations out of which Lincoln arose. Most of them work their way through school; they ask,—"Not Charity, but a Chance." We have hundreds on the waiting list.

It is a real opportunity for American philanthropy, to help carry forward the ideals of Lincoln.

One hundred dollars, coupled with the self-help provided by the University, will carry a student for a year. We are seeking additional buildings, facilities and scholarships.

While we are Americanizing the foreign-born, we must not neglect our own. We must help these millions of real Americans into intelligent, efficient citizenship.

We appeal to the members of the notable "Who's Who in America" family to help recruit these log-cabin children into the ranks of constructive Americanism, to make some of them worthy a place in the "Who's Who" of the future.

Please address all communications to Dr. John Wesley Hill, Chancellor of Lincoln Memorial University, Cumberland Gap, Tenn.

A BRIEF HISTORY

In the summer of 1906, a Young Men's Bible Class was organized in Immanuel Presbyterian Church of Los Angeles by Rev. T. C. Horton, Bible Teacher of the Church. This class soon took on larger proportions and was named "The Fishermen's Club," based upon Matthew 4:19. "Follow Me, and I will make you fishers of men."

In the fall of 1907, at the request of Mr. D. H. Steele, manager of a large department store, a similar class was organized for the young women of his store, under the leadership of Mrs. Anna Horton. This class soon grew to large numbers, including young women from other stores and offices, and was named the "Lyceum Club."

These two classes, with an influence extending to every section of the city and constantly growing in numbers and power, became the nucleus of the Bible Institute of Los Angeles, which was organized in the fall of 1907.

In February, 1908, a permanent organization was effected, with Mr. Lyman Stewart as President and the Rev. T. C. Horton as Superintendent, who continue to fill these offices. Mr. Stewart, for many years a prominent layman in evangelical circles in Los Angeles, has given generously of his means and time to the development of our work, and due largely to his careful oversight, the Institute has assumed its present splendid proportions and character.

The work and scope of the Institute continuing to increase until its quarters were entirely inadequate, property was purchased on Hope Street, and on June 12, 1912, ground was broken for the new buildings, which were opened to the public Easter Sunday, 1915.

These buildings are complete in all their appointments, containing a large auditorium seating 4000 people, class rooms, dining room, and two dormitories of over 600 rooms.

A Big School for Little Boys

ATTENDANCE—There are two hundred fifty boarding pupils of Caucasian race, and ranging in age from six to fourteen years.

FACULTY—The teaching force consists of twenty-six men and women, chosen not only for their teaching ability but for their high character and interest in boys.

LOCATION—The school is located in the open country midway between the business section of Los Angeles and the ocean. The land is high and near enough to the ocean to get the cooling breeze each afternoon.

HEALTH—The school has had a remarkable health record. It has lost only one boy by death during the eighteen years of its existence and that one by an isolated case of spinal meningitis. Epidemics are rare and a call by the doctor is unusual.

MILITARY—There being no high school course, all of the cadets, both officers and privates, are of grammar school age. No one can overestimate the value in character development to a boy at this formative age when placed in such a position of responsibility as the command of a company.

BUILDINGS—There are twenty-three buildings belonging to the school and all those in which the pupils sleep are constructed of hollow tile so as to make them safe from fire.

RELIGION—The school is undenominational. Although the headmaster is a Protestant, the teaching force includes Catholics and Christian Scientists, and the student body has among its members pupils of many shades of religious belief.

ALWAYS OPEN—On account of the extreme youth of the pupils the school never closes, so that parents who are abroad may know that there is no danger of their sons being without proper supervision at the close of the school year. There are usually about seventy-five pupils in attendance during the summer.

COURSES OF STUDY—The courses of study are about the same as the first to the eighth grade of the public school, there being some additions, such as a foreign language and the military drill, together with the changes made possible by the small classes.

EXPENSES—The rate for boarding pupils varies from $750.00 to $850.00 for the school year and the extras, including uniforms, will come to approximately another hundred dollars.

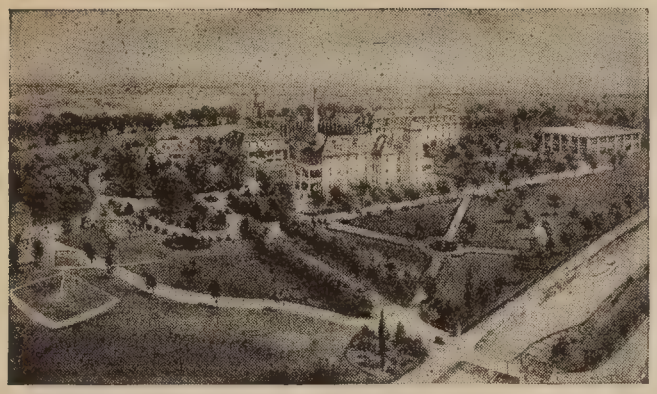
REV. A. K. WHITE, A.M.

Located: ZAREPHATH, N. J.



Situated thirty-five miles from New York City. Over eight hundred acres, bounded on one side by the Millstone River and bisected by the charming Delaware and Raritan Canal. A place of loveliness and action. Sister Institution to Westminster College. Offers full preparatory and college courses. No test of any particular religious creed is applied for admission. Alma College and Westminster College, orthodox and Methodistic in faith, take an emphatic stand for Bible Christianity. They are not in sympathy with so-called "higher criticism," and, though eager to know and teach all of the advanced truths of science, they draw the line on mere speculative philosophy and hypotheses which obliterate and destroy the old paths and mark out nothing certain and reliable in their stead. Young men and young women at Alma and Westminster live in clean and wholesome Christian atmosphere. Both schools insist on high moral standards.

In connection with Alma College in New Jersey is the Zarephath Bible Institute, and in connection with Westminster College in Denver is the Denver Bible Institute—schools which offer general missionary and ministerial training on orthodox lines.

Rates are exceptionally easy. Opportunity is given in each school for a limited number of students to work in partial payment for board and tuition.

REV. RAY B. WHITE, A.M.

Location: WESTMINSTER, COLO.

Situated on what has been truthfully called the grandest scenic promontory in the United States. Commands nearly three hundred miles of mountains and plains, and overlooks, from its vantage point, the beautiful city of Denver. A place of health and inspiration. Westminster College was established and for some years operated by the Presbyterians. During the late war, owing to financial difficulties, it was abandoned, and in 1920 was taken over by the Pillar of Fire Church.

Pursuant to its plan to restore Westminster to its place as a first class institution of learning, the Pillar of Fire is now offering preparatory and college courses, the latter including in 1926-7 only the freshman and sophomore years.

The Choate School

Wallingford, Connecticut

The School was founded in 1896 by the Hon. William G. Choate and Mark Pitman.

Its location, about twelve miles north of New Haven, has proved to be one of the most healthful in New England.

Its numbers are large enough to make for strong esprit de corps and athletic rivalry, without being so large as to prevent a distinct family life and the necessary attention to individuality and development.

Its policy is by a large corps of masters to give to each boy what he individually needs, without holding to any rigid system of forms.

Its effort is unsparing to strengthen in the boys' minds high motives of action which shall permanently control their lives; and to send out boys who are trained for responsible citizenship.

The Lower School prepares boys for the Upper School, as the Upper School prepares them for college.

A catalogue of the School is sent upon application, with the names of those who know intimately the School's work and character.

Berea College and Allied Schools

BEREA, KENTUCKY

STANDING at the Gateway of the Appalachian Highlands, serving the mountain people; according to Professor Andrews of Teachers' College, New York, stretching "a dollar further in securing educational results than probably any other institution in the country."

Approximately 2700 students, from fifteen to forty years of age, are instructed in courses ranging all the way from the A.B.C's to the A.B. degree. Special emphasis is placed upon rural teacher training and Economics, Nursing, Business, etc. Berea gives its students free tuition, furnished rooms, with light and heat, at 60 cents a week, and board at $2.50 a week—a rate of 11 cents a meal. The cost of a year's schooling at Berea, including board, fees and all expenses, except clothing and travel, is $150. All students work an average of two hours a day.

Berea College is religious, but non-sectarian, receives no aid from any state or society, and is mainly dependent on the annual gifts of patriotic citizens.

$128 will pay the net annual cost to Berea of one student.

Training for Authorship

How to write, what to write, and where to sell

Dr. Esenwein

Cultivate your mind. Develop your literary gifts. Master the art of self-expression. Make your spare time profitable. Turn your ideas into dollars.

Courses in Short-Story Writing, Versification, Journalism, Play Writing, Photoplay Writing, etc., taught personally by Dr. J. Berg Esenwein, for many years editor of Lippincott's Magazine, and a staff of literary experts. Constructive criticism. Frank, honest, helpful advice. Real teaching.

One pupil has received over $5,000 for stories and articles written mostly in spare time—"play work," he calls it. Another pupil received over $1,000 before completing her first course. Another, a busy wife and mother, is averaging over $75 a week from photoplay writing alone.

There is no other institution or agency doing so much for writers, young or old. The universities recognize this, for over one hundred members of the English faculties of higher institutions are studying in our Literary Department. The editors recognize it, for they are constantly recommending our courses.

We publish The Writer's Library, descriptive booklet free. We also publish The Writer's Monthly, an indispensable magazine for literary workers, sample copy 25c. Besides our teaching service, we offer a manuscript criticism service.

Dartmouth College

Hanover, New Hampshire

Founded by royal charter from George III, 1769. The charter of the College was an outgrowth of a plan of the Reverend Eleazar Wheelock for the education of Indians. The idea of the founder was early modified and Dartmouth's development has been that of the other New England colleges. The attempt to expand its function and change its title to that of a university, which occurred in 1816, resulted in the famous law-suit known as the Dartmouth College Case, which brought decision in favor of the College.

Dartmouth College has now a restricted enrollment of 2,000 students and a faculty numbering over 200.

At present the courses of undergraduate instruction lead to the degrees of Bachelor of Arts and Bachelor of Science. Beginning with the class graduating in 1929 the Arts degree only will be given.

The Associated Schools are:

The Medical School *Established in 1798. Candidates for the A. B. or B. S. degree in Dartmouth College may satisfy the specific requirements of both the College and the Medical School in three years, and may elect the first year in medicine as the senior year in college. Newton, N. J.

One of the oldest Preparatory schools for boys in New Jersey. Specially adapted for boys between ten and sixteen.

The Academy is most beautifully located in the mountain and lake region of northern New Jersey. The high elevation and dry, bracing air tend to develop strong, vigorous boys. It has a distinctly homelike atmosphere, with kind but firm discipline.

Horses and ponies for the boys' use is a special feature hardly found elsewhere except at large cost. We have always devoted very careful attention to the military part of our work and its necessity is now evident. The expense is moderate and yet sufficient to secure best results.

Why do successful men enrol in the Institute twice?

THE professional schools of great universities, such as Harvard, Yale and Columbia, are accustomed to having their alumni return for summer courses or special work.

But have you ever heard of an institution, conducting its instruction by correspondence, which re-enrols men in the same course a second or even a third time?

The Alexander Hamilton Institute has this experience constantly. Among the successful men who have taken the Course once and then, after a period of years, enroled for it a second time, are the following:

GEORGE R. ANTHONY, Vice-President, Hart & Crouse Company, Utica, New York.

W. P. LILLARD, Vice-President, Kenton Baking Powder Company, Cincinnati, Ohio.

CHARLES H. REMINGTON, Vice-President, Aetna Life Insurance Company, Hartford, Conn.

J. A. ZEHNTBAUER, President, Jantzen Knitting Mills, Portland, Ore.

CHARLES P. MICHELS, Production Manager, Gardner Advertising Company of St. Louis.

Why do these men pay for the same thing twice?

The answer is two-fold:

1. In the first place these hard-headed successful men are not buying the same thing. The Alexander Hamilton Institute Course is different. At tremendous expense an editorial department is maintained which gathers the new developments of business from every source and incorporates them in the Course immediately. If you enrolled five years ago, or even three years ago, clip the coupon below. Let us tell you the big, vital changes that have taken place—splendid changes, keeping the Course and Lectures and Problems abreast of the very latest methods and ideas.

2. Successful men feel that a few dollars a month is a trivial price to pay for new ideas. Herbert M. Holway, of San Francisco, Sales Agent for a number of large manufacturers, expressed it in these words.

"More than offsets the cost"

"As I look back over the years since my first enrolment, the latest revision seems like a post-graduate course. If I needed the Course then, the increased responsibility of running my own business makes this up-to-date information doubly important now.

"What I have been able to apply already from the facts in Volume I, more than offsets the entire cost of the new Course. I am looking forward to another two years of inspiring contact with the Institute."

A free guide to new ideas

This page is directed particularly to men who have already enrolled in the Alexander Hamilton Institute Course and know its power to increase incomes and shorten the path to high positions. But the invitation to send for "Forging Ahead in Business" is extended to every reader of this page who would like to know just what the Institute training can do for him. "Forging Ahead in Business" is pictured below. It is a fascinating little book. Thousands of men have said: "In 30 minutes it gave me a clearer picture of my business future than I had ever had before." Whether you are an old friend of the Institute or a new one, let us send you the new "Forging Ahead in Business," completely rewritten and revised.

The most famous little book in business

More than eight hundred thousand copies of this famous little book have been sent for by business men. Perhaps in years gone by you may have had a copy come to your desk, and read it. If so, send for another copy today. The book has been entirely revised—like the Institute Course. It is a new and different book in everything except the name.

The Smead School for Girls

School Place and Irving Street,

TOLEDO, OHIO

The Misses Anderson, Principals.

THE Smead School for Girls, established in 1884, is one of the oldest private schools for girls in the middle west. Under the direction of the Misses Anderson, high standards of work are maintained from Montessori through college preparatory. The school has been on the accredited list of the North Central Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools continuously since 1908, and has also for some years been a member of this Association. It is in the first rank of the preparatory schools of the country, and its graduates are accepted on certificate by all colleges and universities accepting pupils on certificate. The majority of its graduates, however, go to Vassar, Mount Holyoke, Smith, Wellesley or Wells.

For girls not going to college, there is an Elective Course which offers music, art and domestic science in addition to the usual academic subjects.

The school property is situated in one of the finest residence sections in Toledo. It is one block from one of the main thoroughfares yet rests in an atmosphere of quiet and seclusion. The school occupies three buildings, the residence on School Place, the school building and the Irving Street House on Irving Street. This arrangement of school house separate from the residence materially enlarges the facilities of the school both for resident and day pupils, and affords unusual opportunities for school work and home life.

PENNSYLVANIA COLLEGE FOR WOMEN

PITTSBURGH, PENNSYLVANIA

Founded in 1869 as a college of Liberal Arts. The first catalogue states that the object of the college is to furnish education to young women equal to that given to young men, and the degree of A.B. was granted from the beginning.

Situated in the beautiful residential section of the East End known as Woodland Road, the location combines the advantages of the city and country. Quite apart from the noise of the city it is within five minutes of the car lines. A natural amphitheater provides a beautiful place for pageants and festivals attended by many thousands annually. Athletic grounds afford ample opportunity for all activities. College buildings number five. The dormitory life is particularly attractive and homelike and day students share largely in the social life of the college.

A four-year course leads to the degree of A.B. The courses in Education give the teacher's certificate and professional certificates are given in the special departments of Music, Social Service and Spoken English. Students of the college are able to take advantage of unusual opportunities in Art, and in Music which Pittsburgh provides, while leading lecturers on many subjects are constantly brought to the college to the daily assemblies and the weekly lecture hour. The College is thoroughly Christian in spirit, but undenominational. It is the only woman's college of its kind in Western Pennsylvania. The campaign now on seeks for a larger endowment and new buildings.

WARD-BELMONT, a junior college for young women, accredited by the Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the Southern States and maintaining a high school department likewise accredited, offers superior instruction in literary work, music, art, expression, secretarial science, and physical education.

The fact that over fifty colleges and universities are receiving our students for advanced college standing with full credit is evidence of the thoroughness of our academic work. Each member of the college staff is a B.A. graduate of a reputable college and 5/6 of these instructors have M.A. or higher degrees.

All departments are in the hands of specialists who strive always to maintain a wholesome and inspiring atmosphere assuring breadth of culture and enthusiasm for work.

Our music faculty is probably the most expensively maintained one in any school for girls in America. Work of the highest grade is done as is shown by the recent acceptance of one of our students by the Metropolitan Opera Company after only three years' preparation exclusively in Ward-Belmont. This is a record conservatories have long sought to attain. Other Ward-Belmont students are successfully concertizing.

Patronage by states and by persons is equally divided between North and South. Your daughter will gain much through contact with representative young women from over thirty-five states.

Through the organization of our home department individual attention is given each student in matters of health, social life, etc. Excellent food well served, comfortable rooms with every convenience, all worth while sports and numerous extra-curricula activities add to the enjoyment of school days spent at Ward-Belmont.

We invite detailed inquiries. References required upon registration.

A SCHOOL THE BOY WILL LIKE

Isn't that what you want for YOUR boy? You know how any boy will WORK when the work appeals to him and when the surroundings are congenial. That is one of the great secrets of the success of

St. John's Military Academy

This great school is famous for the ESPRIT of its students and the loyalty of its graduates. It takes a boy at the most impressionable period of his life and by a happy combination of military routine, study, and athletic sports, arouses first his INTEREST, which is quickly followed by loyalty and enthusiasm. With this attitude toward his school, the boy is ready to absorb much more than can be taught from books. The education at St. John's is not a mere "book learning" education. It is broader and deeper. It TRAINS a boy for life and MAKES HIM a GOOD citizen.

The good work of St. John's has been recognized by the government, which maintains a unit of the R. O. T. C. at the school under the supervision of Regular Army Officers.
